

To achieve parity for all Australians through sustainable employment and welfare policy reform.

Launched in 2008, GenerationOne is a national movement to end the disparity between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians through sustainable employment. We believe the best way to achieve this is through real opportunities in education, training, mentoring and employment. The focus of GenerationOne is now primarily aligned with providing high-level support for the Vocational Training and Employment Centre (VTEC) network across Australia and advocating for other holistic policy measures across a range of areas including education, health, housing, welfare and tax under the banner of The Forrest Review: Creating Parity.
